

Psychosocial services for parents

Objective

To support parents, non-offenders or other significant adults after they find out that a child or adolescent has experienced sexual violence.

Actions are aimed at helping parents deal with the situation and guiding them through the various procedures.

Topics that may be addressed

- Personal issues related to the sexual violence experienced by the child or teen and its consequences
- The socio-medico-legal process
- Submitting an application to Indemnisation des victimes d'actes criminels (IVAC – crime victims' compensation)
- Specific parenting skills that may be needed after sexual violence occurs
- Services for children and adolescents provided at Marie-Vincent
- The possible reactions of child and adolescent victims of sexual violence and of their parents

Families may be referred to and accompanied to other resources as needed.

Meetings

Our psychosocial services can be provided at various times based on need, throughout the child's or adolescent's process with Marie-Vincent.

- At a police investigation interview
- At a medical exam
- When a service request is filled out
- When the child or adolescent receives services at Marie-Vincent (assessment or therapy)
