The Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre is a collaborative and innovative one-stop centre focused on minimizing the impact of physical and sexual child abuse and to reduce system-induced trauma through the collaboration and coordination of social service agencies for child and youth victims or witnesses and their families. We are a not-for-profit organization that is transforming how the current system responds to abused children and their families in Calgary and surrounding communities.

Our multi-agency approach seeks to treat abused children and their families, stop the cycle of abuse, and support victims throughout their recovery. With the support of all three levels of government and the generosity of our sponsors and donors, we have co-located four partner organizations under one roof at the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre. These partner agencies are:

- Calgary Police Services,
- Alberta Health Services,
- Alberta Health Services,
- The Calgary and Area Child and Family Services Authority, and
- Alberta Justice Calgary Crown Prosecutors Office. - Edmonton
