Edmonton's Zebra Child Protection Centre enables their community to respond to child abuse allegations with a professional, compassionate and highly integrated program of healing and justice.

The Centre integrates a multi-disciplinary community of professionals— police officers, social workers, Crown Prosecutors, child at risk response teams, medical and trauma screening professionals and volunteer child advocates—in a virtual, child centred environment that nurtures the child and uses all the wisdom of its partnership to see that justice is done. The multi-disciplinary team allows for streamlined, thorough and expert investigations, interventions, prosecutions and supports. Through our own resources as well as alliances within the community, Zebra connects children and their non-offending parents and guardians with essential social, medical and mental health services and supports.
